U.S. Census Bureau

The Census Bureau conducts many important censuses and surveys. The most well known is the official population census of the United States, called the decennial census. It is conducted every ten years, most recently in April 2000. During each decennial census, the Census Bureau collects data from every household in the U.S. and its territories.

Besides the decennial census, the Census Bureau conducts nearly one hundred other surveys and censuses every year. By law, no one is permitted to reveal information from these censuses and surveys that could identify any person, household, or business. Individual records from each decennial census are made public 72 years after the census has been taken. In the meantime, the information collected for each census and survey is summarized by geographic area and then published in a variety of formats, including printed reports, CD-ROM, DVD, and on the Internet.

American FactFinder displays the results of the census and other surveys in table and map formats (not all formats are available for all programs). The information available on this website is user friendly, and will assist those conducting specific demographic research or research on an industry with valuable data that is often required. We wanted to share this website with you, and encourage you to bookmark and explore the site for future reference. If you have any questions, contact us at any time. “Business Assistance Expo”

A Tremendous Success!

A special thank you to all of the individuals who came out to the “Historic Kendall County Courthouse” on Thursday May 5th, 2005 to attend the YEDC’s “Business Assistance Expo”. We are pleased to report that over 100 entrepreneurs were eager to learn about programs available from agencies throughout the State of Illinois, which provide access to capital, workforce development and specialized training and assistance, to name a few. Special thanks to our event sponsors Castle Bank-Yorkville, Old Second Bank-Yorkville, UnionBank, and The First National Bank-Yorkville. This event proves that Yorkville’s business community is fervent to expand, open to new ideas and desires to remain on the cutting edge on all fronts.

On a Personal Note ...

I wanted to thank everyone for the wonderful cards, flowers, calls and visits to express sympathy on the recent passing of my Mother, Lena DiCristofaro. These thoughtful gestures are very much appreciated by both my family and me. I am truly surrounded with caring friends and associates, who I cherish and value in both my personal and professional life.
